

Since the 2014 release of her first full-length album, Dance Against the Wind, Rhonda Gallant-Morari has been an active member in the Saskatchewan music scene. Not only has Rhonda been wowing audiences with her skill at the piano, her rich voice, and her evocative song writing, with her music she has been continuously giving back to the people of Saskatchewan through fundraising campaigns, collaborative song-writing initiatives, inter-media art projects (including an exhibit at the Royal Saskatchewan Museum in Regina) and serving on committees that promote music education and arts initiatives in the community.

While honing her skills in piano, vocal performance, song-writing and music production with numerous national and international workshops, music summits and music camps, Rhonda has continued to write songs, resulting in her 2020 release Star Drift (with Brad Prosko, Bart McKay and Ross Nykiforuk at the production helm), followed by several singles including 'Under An Ink Black Sky' - an emotional tribute for a young Saskatchewan family killed by a drunk driver.

Rhonda's captivating stories, intertwined with catchy melodies and beautiful arrangements, never fail to charm any and all that have had the fortune to hear them. Her sound embraces folk, gospel, jazz, with a hint of country and pop, which all at once inspires strong emotions and the urge to dance! A testament to this can be found in the 2023 music video release 'Lets Go Outside Remix', Rhonda's second video release; as part of a Creative Saskatchewan Music Video project produced by Motion Kat Media, Rhonda worked closely with Ross Nykiforuk of Cosmic Pad Studios remixing the original song to encapsulate Ross' signature energetic pop sound.

Rhonda is very excited to be starting production on her third album which is due to be released fall of 2024.
